“ I'm not saying goodbye since its not goodbye.Its the start of the next chapter. we might not all be there all the time or at all but we are always in each others hearts all the time. Kim we a hero to me or even better a mom to me she would do anything for me. She was the best troop leader. Also an amazing mom to Abby. Abby will always be my sister. If only I could spend a hew more hoers with her or so 1 on 1.

“ I was one of the nurses who cared for Kim shortly before her passing. Working in a hospital isn't always easy, but she really did brighten up my nights. One very late night when she couldn't sleep, she asked me "what's your story?" We chatted for a while about what brought me all the way from Rochester to Albany. And then I asked her about her story. She told me how she worked for St. Peter's at one point, and how she met the right people at the right time and learned something from everyone she met. She made the most of her time here. And she told me she knows where she's going next.

As I said my goodbyes to her before she was discharged, she said to me "never stop telling your story". She is the reason I now not only ask patients what brings them in to the hospital, but also what their story is. She made an impact on my heart that will change the way I care for my patients as long as I remain in medicine, and other people as long as I am here on Earth. My heart goes out to her beautifully strong parents whom I loved seeing walk in promptly at 6am, and movingly loving husband, daughter, and siblings I got to meet when I arrived again at 7pm.

Thank you Kim, I will never stop telling my story.

“ I met Kim about a year ago when she was part of the Randstad team that came to make a presentation at my company. In May, we began to partner closely on a hiring effort. Not only was Kim great at what she did, she was a wonderful person. I know that she loved her family dearly. My deepest sympathy. Joyce Heckman

“ Kim was one of the most amazing women I've ever had the pleasure to call my friend. We met when our daughters were in the same daycare and the rest of the last nine or so years is history as she would say! Kim was the epitome of a girl scout and she conveyed that through her troop, always making sure the girls enjoyed whatever activity was planned. Kim was a kind, selfless woman always willing to lend a helping hand. She will be missed immensely by those whose lives she touched along her journey.

Our heartfelt condolences to Griff, Abby, Pam, Frank, David and Tracy. May the support of those around you sustain you through the days ahead.

Much love,

Carla, Sean, Kendahl, Riannyn and Chloe

Her and Griff always took the lead on the Holiday parade and this year we (the Girl Scouts and leaders) will be marching in her honor!! She will be truly missed.

“ I will always be so grateful how Kim welcomed Robyn into her Girl Scout troop with open arms. I have only known Kim for less than a year but have many funny memories that we shared.

Selling cookies, camping at little notch, and always running into each other at High Bridge ice cream probably more than either of us would want to share. Love and prayers to her family. Love, the Tyrell family
